Join The Business Aviation World in Las Vegas!

This year's National Business Aircraft Association (NBAA) 64th annual meeting and convention will be held Oct. 10 – 12, 2011 in Las Vegas. The Las Vegas Convention Center will be home for thousands as the business aviation world descends on LAS. My first visit to Las Vegas was in the late 1970s and I recall driving south of the city across open desert to visit a small airport in Henderson. What a change this airport has gone through. Now known as Henderson Executive Airport, the NBAA static displays will be located here to allow people a chance to see a wide variety of aircraft in person.

On Sunday Oct. 9, 2011, one day prior to the 2011 NBAA Annual Meeting and Convention, AMTSociety and Caesars Entertainment invite you to the 4th Annual AMTSociety Scholarship Fundraising Golf Tournament at the beautiful Rio Secco Golf Club. These scholarships go to students interested in pursuing an aviation maintenance technician career, or to already existing AMTs wanting to broaden their education base. Join in the fun, networking, and camaraderie while participating in the great event and worthwhile cause. For more information visit www.amtsociety.org.

On Wednesday, Oct. 12, AMTSociety in conjunction with NBAA will hold an FAA Inspection Authorization (IA) renewal session.

Scheduled throughout the convention period are numerous maintenance and technical sessions that address topics from management of the aviation maintenance function, to technical topics relating to specific aircraft, engines, avionics, and more.

See you in Las Vegas! Ron

Cygnus Aviation's booth at NBAA 2010.

Nick Sergi and John Goglia did a presentation at NBAA 2010 on the technician of the future.

NBAA2011 represents the most productive and efficient opportunity for business — all in one place, all at one time. There's no other aviation event that can match it — the key operators and industry leaders will meet in Las Vegas to conduct business, make buying decisions, and set the stage for business aviation activity for the year ahead.

NBAA2011 will feature exhibits at the Las Vegas Convention Center, a static display of aircraft on Henderson Executive Airport, more than 100 education sessions and maintenance and operations sessions (M&Os), and more than 25,000 business aviation professionals who are interested in seeing and learning about all that is new in the world of business aviation.

Static Display

For the first time ever at NBAA, aircraft can be displayed right outside the convention center, directly adjacent to indoor exhibits.

This Outdoor Static Display Area is in addition to the full Static Display of Aircraft at Henderson Executive Airport.

The Outdoor Static Display Area will provide unprecedented access for NBAA2011 Attendees to aircraft near the indoor Exhibits and Education Sessions at the Las Vegas Convention Center (LVCC).

4th Annual AMTSociety Scholarship Fundraising Golf Tournament

On Sunday, Oct. 9, AMTSociety and Caesars Entertainment invite you to enjoy a memorable day of golf at the beautiful Rio Secco Golf Club. It is rated among the top 100 public golf courses in America. The golf outing will provide an opportunity to have fun, network, and socialize with your aviation colleagues.

AMTSociety offers scholarships for individuals in pursuit of an aviation maintenance career or for current aircraft technicians wanting to further their training. Net proceeds collected for AMTSociety Scholarship Fundraising Golf Tournament will go to the AMTSociety Scholarship Northrop-Rice Foundation and is tax-deductible under 501(C)(3).

Enrollment and sponsorship forms are available from AMTSociety Director Peter Zeeb at pzeeb@caesars.com or bobi@amt-society.org. Or you can visit www.amtsociety.org.

NBAA International Standard for Business Aircraft Operations (IS-BAO) - Business Aviation's Safety Management Systems (SMS) "Gold Standard"

10:30 a.m. - Noon

Presented by: Jim Cannon and Sonnie Bates, International Business Aviation Council (IBAC)

You demand the highest level of safety and security for your flight operations. The International Business Aviation Council's (IBAC) International Standard for Business Aircraft Operations (IS-BAO), developed over the past eight years, leverages the best thinking and practices of business aviation operators from around the world. This SMS-based program is designed to assist single to multiple aircraft operators in developing their own safety management systems (SMS), regardless of the size or scope of their flight operations. This session will address the process of getting your organization started in, and progressing through the process of developing uniform practical procedures that are relevant to the highest levels of operational safety. IS-BAO will help ensure you achieve it. If you are already familiar with IS-BAO and you would like to learn how to advocate internally for IS-BAO, please attend this session.

Maximizing Benefits and Minimizing Costs of Your Business Aircraft

1 p.m. - 2 p.m.

Presented by: Janet Bressler, AOPA Insurance Agency; Anne Ford, Bank of America; and Nel Stubbs, Conklin & de Decker

Costs associated with operating an aircraft can be significant, but at times difficult to identify and understand. Explore the categories of operating costs (fixed and variable) and how to organize these costs into data for management information. Additionally, there may be opportunities to increase your bottom line through efficiencies obtained in aircraft finance and insurance. Our experts will explore ways to help you understand and minimize your costs while maximizing the use of your airplane.

NBAA Update on Current Operational Challenges Facing Part 91 and Part 135 Operators

1 p.m. - 2:30 p.m.

Presented by: NBAA Domestic Operations Committee

This session will introduce a number of current operational challenges applicable to aircraft operators under Part 91 and Part 135 of the Federal Aviation Regulations, including discussions on the history and current status of those issues, and possible strategies on how to address them.

NBAA Value-Based Leadership in the Aviation Department

9 a.m. - 10 a.m.

Presented by: Scott A. Moore, CAM, Luck Stone; John White, Valero Energy Corporation; and Brock Grimes, Anadarko Petroleum Corporation

Many companies have established a set of core values to guide their business operations. This session will provide a short history of business aviation and a description of values-based leadership. A panel of aviation department managers will describe how values-based leadership works in their operations.

NBAA Buying a Business Aircraft: Lessons from the Trenches

9 a.m. - 10:30 a.m.

Presented by: Alan Burnett, CenterPoint Aviation Law, PLLC; Stuart Hope, Hope Aviation Insurance; Frank Polk, McAfee & Taft; and Dave Weil, Solairus Aviation

Using real-life scenarios and role playing, this session will bring to life the complexities surrounding buying a business aircraft (from a high-performance, single-engine piston to an intercontinental turbojet) and how to address those in an effective manner. Understanding the marketplace, the regulatory environment, tax, financing and insurance considerations, and operational issues related to intended use of the aircraft will be highlighted by seasoned experts who have successfully completed hundreds of aircraft transactions.

NBAA Safety Committee Town Hall Meeting

9 a.m. - 11 a.m.

Keeping safety on the horizon — developing NBAA's future safety leaders. How prepared are we to help develop and train the next generation of business aviation's safety professionals? The future will bring all measures of change that involve leadership preparation, safety culture, development, equipment, globalization, shortages of qualified personnel, data mining, and other critical areas. Join this session to hear safety and industry leaders share what we can do to always keep safety in view.
